PERFORMANCE

Prithvi: Cities, suicides, in love, off bikes, through doors and down stairs. The fall of a government; my fall from grace. Shoes in a tumble drier. A gymnast's leap. Imagine you are looking out of a window. Not here. Not with me, not my window. But somewhere else, somewhere else in the world completely. You're looking out of a window and you see something sail past. In a city that could be anyone's, mass protests sweep first the internet and then the streets, toppling an unstable government and creating a moment of uncertainty; a tipping point. With writing gathered from an open call out, original music, and an ever-changing landscape on stage, Falls 2-11 is an unofficial onlooker's history of falling. Time and Venue: 9 pm at Prithvi Theatre, Janki Kutir, Juhu

EXHIBITION
The Loft: In his second solo exhibition, The Poetics of Space, artist Sachin Tekade presents a body of work that is a response to the impulse of linear space and a deeper exploration of its interiors. The title of the show is inspired by philosopher Gaston Bachelard's book by the same name. Tekade's art works deal with the emotional quotient of space and his ideas of a line as an integral element of space. In his work, the line impresses on space, rather than function as a structure. The show is on till January 31. Time and Venue: 11 am to 7 pm at The Loft, Mathuradas Mills Compound, Lower Parel

Jehangir Art Gallery: RB Bhaskaran is a maker of surprising and explosive things. Strong compositions, elegant contour drawing and the effective use of colors, bold black outline and texture characterize the work of the Chennai-born artist, whose depictions of imaginary worlds borrow equally from the history of illustration, early modernist painting and outsider art. On till January 12. Time and Venue: 11 am to 7 pm at 161-B, M.G. Road, Kala Ghoda
